KIOWA-COMANCHE RESERVATION

A LIVELY DESCRIPTION OF THE BEAUTIES THEREOF.

A Resident Writes a Letter in Which He Says the New Land Opened Up is Very Near the Ideal.

Mr. A. W. Cooke, of this city, has received a letter from an old school mate, Mr. C. R. Moss, who is now in Indian Territory, in which the new territory just opened up by the government is vividly described. Mr. Moss says:

"For the benefit of the many who are daily seeking information concerning this country, and who contemplate obtaining homes neath the sunny skies of this fertile section, I am prompted to write this article.

"This reservation consists of nearly three million acres of land, including the allotments that will be made to the Indians. The country is mostly prairie skirted here and there by woodland. The soil consists for the most part of rich sandy loam, and the climate is such that all the great staple products can be produced. As this land has hitherto been under cultivation, its yield per acre cannot, of course, be exactly estimated. Land of the same character in the Chicksaw nation bordering it yields on the average from three-fourths to one bale of cotton per acre, from twenty to forty bushels of wheat, from twenty-five to seventy-five bushels of corn, and other grains in proportion. It has not only these unequalled agricultural advantages, but the Wichita Mountains, as has been proved by tests, are rich in various kinds of minerals. Situated as it is in the central part of the country with its unequalled fertility of soil, the wealth of its mines, and its many other natural advantages, it bids fair to be in a few years the most prosperous and flourishing part of the United States.

"How to obtain a homstead in this section, is the question with a large number of people.

"First. A man may enter homestead by making application at the proper land office. In this case it will be necessary for the applicant to show that he is qualified to make such entry. These qualifications are enumerated in Section 2290 of the United States Revenue Statistics; the substance of which are as follows: The applicant must be the head of a family or over twenty-one years of age, and the application must be made in good faith and for the purpose of settlement. Persons who have previously taken the homestead, or hold lands to the extent of 160 acres cannot acquire any right under the homestead law.

"Second. He may settle on the lands and within three months from the date of settlement, make his entry, and within a reasonable time establish his residence on the lands. From this we see that the land will be practically owned by the people who live on it.

"It's the realization of a condition which from the earliest times the philanthropists have cherished. The ancient poets dreamed of such a condition in some favored land beyond the sea, Seneca discussed it in his "Lost Atlanti," and the homeless in all countries of land monopolization have longed for homes where the bow of promise spans the "hesperian climes of the west."

"Schools and churches are characteristic of a land of homes. With the dense population this section is capable of supporting, there is every reason to believe that it will be unexcelled anywhere in the United States for school and church facilities. The settlers of a new country are almost without exception an enterprising people. Animated by the spirit which leads men from the overcrowded sections to make their homes on the broad plains and billowy prairies of the earth they are alive to every enterprise that will elevate the section in which they live.

"To the tillers of the soil who have never known what it means to own their homes this section offers unparallelled inducements. For the artisan there are houses and school-houses and churches to be built. For the young man ambitions to succeed in his chosen profession, there will be new towns where the business has not already been monopolized by those

CHRISTIAN HARMONY HERE

REV. MR. JOHNSON'S LAST SERMON AS PASTOR

The Devil's Temptation for War Among Denominations Finds No Lodging Here. The 20th Century Holds the Evil Day.

Rev. Livingston Johnson preached his last sermon as pastor of West Washington Street Baptist Church last night. The pastor said he did not believe in farewell sermons, for he thought no time should be lost in preaching the gospel. The theme was "A Twentieth Century Message to the Christian Warrier."

He took his text from Ephesians 6:13, "Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God that you may be able to withstand in the evil day and having done all, to stand." The life of a Christian is likened to a warfare. And after all this equipment we must be strengthened in the Lord. Some things to be noticed:

1st. There must be something to stand against. In the Christian warfare we do not have flowery beds of ease, as we must stand against the wiles of the devil. We have to contend against the strategams of the evil one, and his forces are organized, and so well organized that he has his representatives everywhere. As an organized force, he will have to be fought with an organized force. All the members of our churches are to be organized for this work, a wise, discreet and perfect organization. There is no power greater than the church, but this does not prevent other organizations. It is gratifying to see the harmony among the different denominations of this city. It should be so. The devil tempts us to war among ourselves. But none of their harmony has been brought about by a sacrifice of principle.

2nd. Against the evil day. There are three or four interpretations of the meaning of this day. It may mean the day of temptation. The devil comes to us insiduously. I believe the evil day is ahead of the church. During the day of our sacrifice we were bound to lean on the Lord and go hand in hand with Him.

Worldliness and vanity is the great evil ahead of us. It must be fought by the church. And I believe the twentieth century holds the evil day of this country. We must prepare for it.

We must have the shield of faith, faith in Jesus Christ.

We must have the helmet of salvation. If you have this no dart sent by the satale can reach you.

You are to have on the sword of the spirit. This is the only offensive weapon named. And having done all, stand. If you can do nothing else, stand.

WEEK OF PRAYER.

Centenary, Westminster, Grace, and the Friend's churches will observe the week of prayer by holding a union service each evening during the week. The first service of the series was held at Westminster church last night. A large congregation was present, and an excellent sermon was preached by Rev. H. K. Boyer, from Matt. 5:5, Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth."

Tonight at 7:30 o'clock the service will be held at Grace church. Subject, "Missions." Leader, Rev. E. E. Gillespie.

Tomorrow evening the service will be conducted by Rev. T. M. Johnson at Centenary church. Subject, "The Church."

All are most cordially invited to attend these services.

SPECIAL SERVICES.

The protracted meeting at the First Presbyterian church began yesterday. At the morning service the congregation filled both the auditorium and the aisles. The night sermon on "Wheat and Chaff" was heard by another large congregation. A profound solemnity pervaded the service. The Holy Spirit was manifestly present. A large number remained to the after meeting and there were numerous conversions. The public are cordially invited to attend these services. Preaching every night at 7.30.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Tyree will preach in the West Washington Street Baptist Church next Sunday. He will soon thereafter let the church know whether he will accept.

Yesterday morning was communion service day at Centenary Church. The pastor, Rev. H. K. Boyer, read the 12th chapter of Exodus, beginning at the first verse, and 11th chapter of Paul's First Letter to the Ephesians, 23rd to 34th verses, for the lesson, and preached from St. Luke 22:19—"This do in remembrance of me," etc., to a good congregation.

The Communion service was held after the sermon. The voluntary by the choir, "Crown Him," with the solo parts was very much enjoyed.

TO ENFORCE CONSUL'S WISHES.

He Significantly Points to an American Monitor and the Viceroy Tumbles.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Tacoma, Jan. 7.—The steamship Tacoma brings news from Hong Kong that the American consul there has required viceroy Kwang Yung to suppress several seditious native newspapers circulated throughout the canton advising the natives to rise against foreigners. Some objection to this was made when the consul first protested. He pointed to the United States monitor Monterey lying in the harbor, as an evidence that his wishes must be respected. The viceroy then gave orders to suppress the papers and arrest any one found selling them.

Accepts a Position in Raleigh.

Mr. Will Gwaltney, who for some months has been connected with Fariss' drug store, has accepted a position with Mr. Henry T. Hicks, of Raleigh. He will be manager of the retail department of Mr. Hick's establishment, and will leave for Raleigh on Wednesday.

Mr. Gwaltney is a son of Rev. W. R. Gwaltney, who, for a number of years was pastor of West Washington Street Baptist church.

Installed I. O. O. F. Officers.

Mr. R. W. Murray returned yesterday from McAdensville, where he went to install newly elected officers of a lodge of Odd Fellows—Riverside Lodge No. 200. Mr. Murray is Deputy Grand Master of North Carolina.

SEVERE COLD IN EUROPE.

A Blizzard is Causing Much Distress Throughout the Continent.

London, Jan. 6.—Severe cold has suddenly set in throughout Europe. In England it is accompanied by a northeasterly wind, amounting to a gale over the channel. At Dover a boat was capsized, four persons being drowned and probably other accidents will be reported. On the continent the weather is still more severe. Snow has fallen as far south as Naples, and in St. Petersburg the cold is so intense that the police in the streets have had to be frequently relieved and the schools to be closed. At Moscow the temperature is 30 degrees below zero. Tremendous gales are blowing over the Adriatic. Terrible blizzards are reported from Austria and southern Russia, extingnishing signal lights and resulting in the derailing of the Orient express at Altpazua. The storm caused a collision between passenger trains at Mikola, near Szatmar, Hungary, six persons being killed. Nine people were frozen to death on a high road in Transylvania. Odessa is completely snow-bound. The harbor is frozen over and trains are unable to enter or leave in consequence of the drifts.

SNOW AND SEVERE COLD IN FRANCE AND ITALY.

Paris, Jan. 6.—Severe cold is reported throughout France and Italy. A foot of snow fell at Marseilles last evening, and the mercury shows 18 degrees of frost in Paris today. There have been a number of deaths in the streets. Trains from a long distance are greatly delayed.

Snow has fallen in southern Italy and the city of Rome and surrounding country are snow-clad for the first time in many years. Crowds assembled on the pincio to witness the rare panorama.

SENDS OUT A FRESH COLD FIT.

EFFECT OF IGNORANCE CONCERNING THE INVADERS.

Cape Town is All in a Fright and is Calling Loudly for Help From England—A Fatal Skirmish.

By Wire to The Telegram.

London, Jan. 7.—Kitchener cables from Pretoria under yesterday's date that a detachment of a hundred and twenty men belonging to Knox's command came in contact with a superior number of the enemy near Lindley. Col. Lang and two other officers and fifteen men were killed and two officers and twenty men wounded. There are no details.

UNSATISFACTORY NEWS.

London, Jan. 7.—This morning's news from Cape Town is again unsatisfactory. Martial law has been proclaimed at Malmesbury and would have been proclaimed in other districts, but that the cabinet meeting called Saturday was unable to agree as to its advisability. The vagueness of the information concerning the movements and position of the invaders has sent a fresh cold fit over the colonists, and Cape Town calls loudly for strong re-enforcements from England on the ground that the greater part of Lord Kitchener's available force is employed in protecting the lines of communication and the Rand mines, the latter extending for a distance of 50 miles. It is asserted by one Cape Town correspondent that unless the forces in Cape Colony are increased a most undesirable state of affairs may result, as the success in arms of the invaders, however slight, might be the signal for a Dutch rising. As it is, many British residents have had to leave the Dutch villages near Cape Town, their lives being unbearable.

According to a native report, a hundred men, either Boers or local farmers, have just passed through Clanwilliam district in the direction of Malmesbury.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail, who calls for 40,000 fresh troops, says: "Prominent Afrikander Loyalists declare that the rebellious colonists will construe the colonial call to arms as a challenge, and that the ominous silence of the pro-rebels, combined with the fact that members of the pro-Boer junta, in Cape Town, have been touring in the disaffected districts, emphasizes the necessity for martial law. The necessity was never more acute for dispatching re-enforcements. Already there is proof that colonials are leading one commando."

The military movements reported are quite unimportant, though Portugal is sending re-enforcements to Lorenzo Marques.

Dr. Leyds, according to The Hague correspondent of The Daily mail, is recruiting in Holland, Belgium, France and Germany, and his recruits will be sent out to Namaqualand, ostensibly as emigrants, each man receiving £50 down on starting.

General MacArthur Deporting Insurrectionists.

By Wire to The Telegram.

Manila, Jan. 7.—MacArthur has ordered the deportation of Gen. Ricrate Del Pilar and his son, Llaner Santos, to Idland Guan. Nine regimental and four subordinate officers, with eight civilians, including Trias, Tecson, Mahini, all notorious assistants of the insurrectionists, have been ordered deported. MacArthur intends holding most of the active leaders of the rebels, who have been captured in Guan until the resumption of a condition of peace has been declared.

The Flury on the Street.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Jan. 7.—On Wall Street a wild scramble for big profits occurred this morning. Stocks fell off, but reacted. Baltimore Ohio common made jump to 5¼ points, preferred 3¼ points; Delaware and Hudson canal rose 4¼; Reading went up three points and down three points.

Mr. John Stewart will give a dance this evening at his home eight miles east of the city. A number of young people from town will be present.

DEATH OF PHILIP D. ARMOUR.

AN ACCOUNT OF THE LIFE OF THE GREAT PROVISION DEALER.

Broken Down at the Age of 69, He Dies After Having in Vain Sought to Regain Health—His Most Paying Investment.

Associated Press in Charlotte Observer.

Chicago, Jan. 6. Philip D. Armour died at his residence on Prairie avenue, in this city, at 5:45 o'clock this evening. The end came after two years of illnes, during which time Mr. Armour visited German baths, passed the cold months in southern California and devoted himself largely to an attempt to restore his health, which, however, had been broken never to be regained. For several weeks the dead millionaire had been living at the old family home on Prairie avenue, the usual trip to southern California not having been undertaken this winter. He came down to the office in the Home Insurance building but seldom, and as the cold increased, he did not come at all. It was understood in the office that he had an incipient attack of pneumonia, but it was given out no later than a week ago that he was on the road to recovery. It was noted, however, that the constant attendance of Dr. Frank Billings, the family physican, at the bedside of the sick man, did not corroborate the favorable reports at the down-town office. For several days death had been feared as the outcome by the close associates of the great captain of industry. They realized that the decline from day to day did not cease, and that there could be but one end. When death came, his grandchildren, who had so close a place in his heart, were at the family residence, as was J. Ogden Armour, the surviving son.

Mr. Armour had lost stregth steadily from day to day since the commencement of the winter. The pneumonia was checked, but strength was not regained. His treadmill of work and his firm grip on affairs were maintained until the spring of 1899. Then the machine began to show signs of breaking. Mr. Armour was reported to be a sick man these reports were confirmed when he sailed for Germany to take baths at Baden-Baden. He spent most of the summer at the baths and was sufficiently restored in health to take a trip to Sitzerland, where he remained a month among the mountains.

When he returned to Chicago that fall he was looking well, and his friends hoped his recovery was complete. He went to the summer home of his son, Philip D. Armour, Jr., at Oconomowoc, Wis., and remained there until nearly winter. Then he journeyed to Pasadena, in southern California, for the coln months. All the time he was at Oconomowoc he made weekly trips to his office, in the Home Insurance building, and was receiving constant reports of the general drift of his business affairs.

The death of his son, Philip D. Armour, Jr., in southern California, on January 29, 1900, was a great shock to the health-broken man, from which he never recovered. The son had gone on a visit to his father and was taken suddenly with pneumonia. His death followed with scarcely a day's warning. The son had largely interested the father and inherited the business ability of the Armours.

Mr. Armour was not able to accompany the funeral party to Chicago. When he did return here he went direct to Ocoocnomowoc and remained there until the chill weather in the fall drove the cottagers to their city homes.

After the death of Philip D. Armour, the interests of the Armour Company, which had been carried on as co-partnership, were incorporated under the old name of Armour & Company. This was to provide greater stability in case of death, and made no change in the practical ownership of properties. Some years before, the grain department had been incorporated under the title of the Armour Elevator Company. The death of Simon B. Armour, at Kansas City, in March, 1899, caused no particular change in the Armour interests there, as they were incorporated as a stock company. So carefully had the plans for the future been made that the death of Mr. Armour will have little effect on the outward working of the enterprise, with which he

ARSON, ATTEMPTED MURDER.

PECULIAR CASE NEAR WINSTON FRIDAY NIGHT.

A Man Had Been Warned to Cease Paying Attention to a Certain Lady—Attacked by a Man Who Had Burned His Factory, and Cut and Shot in a Fierce Fight.

Winston Journal, Saturday.

A crime unsurpassed in recent years in these parts was committed last night about eight miles north of Winston on the Rural Hall road. It was the malicious burning of a tobacco factory, the property of Mr. Charlie Cox, and deliberate attempt to take his life.

The particulars of the case as stated by the deputies and others who have visited the scene and those who know the nature of the case are as follows:

CHAPTER I.

Mr. Cox has, it is alleged, for some time, been paying attention to a young lady, Miss Laura Huff, the daughter of Mr. John Huff, a buggy manufacturer at East Bend. During the Christmas holidays a day was set for their marriage, but when Mr. Cox called for her, she declined to marry Mr. Cox. It is thought her attitude in the matter did not indicate a lack of appreciation, but was due to other reasons.

CHAPTER II.

Wednesday Mr. Cox received a letter mailed from Donnaha which stated that if he did not cease his attentions to Miss Huff he would be killed and his factory burned. She gave him information in regard to designs suspected of certain of her relatives These Mr. Cox did not regard seriously.

CHAPTER III.

Last night about 8 o'clock as he was walking across the yard to his house he heard a noise in his factory about 200 yards away and walked across to investigate, danger never occurring to him. He had just reached the factory when suddenly some man sprang from a window of the building and attacked Mr. Cox with a knife. Mr. Cox being about as good a man as his assailant succeeding in holding him at arm's length, the unknown man at the same time fiercely striking at Mr. Cox with a knife. He succeeded in cutting about twenty holes in his coat, a long split down his back and inflicting several wounds in his left arm. The party being unable to kill Mr. Cox with the knife, dropped it and drew a pistol, firing several shots, one of which took effect in the left leg of Mr. Cox between his knee and groin. The party then ran. The above occurrence happened in very much less time than it takes to tell it.

The family of Mr. Cox hearing the firing of the pistol came out and found him. They discovered at the same time that the factory was on fire. It was burned to the ground, as the flames could not be extinguished.

In response to a telephone message Sheriff Alspaugh, Deputies J. J. Cofer and H. D. Leak, Officers J. R. Miller and Herman Crittenbaum left Winston at 10 o'clock last night for the scene with the two bloodhounds owned by the Winston police. They struck the trail of the criminal and followed it for a distance of about two miles, but it made a circuit and brought them back to the place of its beginning, where a large crowd had gathered by that time.

Sheriff Alspaugh has remained out in the neighborhood of Mr. Cox's home all day in search of the guilty party. The bloodhounds were brought back last night. Dr. Flint of Rural Hall, attended Mr. Cox, who is a first cousin to W. O. and J. M. Cox of this place. The factory burned was a three story frame building and contained besides a lot of leaf tobacco about ten thousand pounds of manufactured tobacco. The factory, a grist mill standing near, which was also burned, machinery and stock of tobacco, were insured for $3,900. It was valued at between nine and ten thousand dollars.

The man who attacked Mr. Cox and burned his factory is described as being a short, stout white man and wearing a slouch hat. Thursday Mr. R. L. Cox took out $8000 insurance on his house and other property, but did not include his factory.

Heading Off the Back Number Buds.
arlotte Observer.

It ought not be worth while for a paper which always furnishes the latest, fullest and most accurate news to say that it will continue to do so, but in view of the fact that there are in the State a number of back-number buds who think they must have a Raleigh paper during the session of the legislature, we may say that during the session which will begin Wednesday The Observer will furnish its customary ample and accurate legislative reports.

COLDS

The quickest relief, for a cold, is by Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil.

We all have colds, you can try it and see. You will find the edge taken off in a night; and, in three or four days, you'll be wondering whether that cold amounted to anything anyhow.

That's relief. If you tackle it quick, the relief is quick and complete, if you wait till the cold is in full possession of head and lung, why, of course, the relief is quick if it comes in a week.

A little emulsion won't clear and restore your whole breathing-machine in a minute; don't be looking for miracles.

We'll send you a little to try, if you like.
SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl street, New York.

Contagious Blood Poison

There is no poison so highly contagious, so deceptive and so destructive. Don't be too sure you are cured because all external signs of the disease have disappeared, and the doctor says you are well. Many persons have been dosed with Mercury and Potash for months or years, and pronounced cured—to realize when too late that the disease was only covered up—driven from the surface to break out again, and to their sorrow and mortification find those nearest and dearest to them have been infected by this loathsome disease, for no other poison is so surely transmitted from parent to child as this. Often a bad case of Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula or severe skin disease, an old sore or ulcer developing in middle life, can be traced to blood poison contracted in early life, for it remains smoldering in the system forever, unless properly treated and driven out in the beginning. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this peculiar virus, the only remedy known that can overcome it and drive it out of the blood, and it does this so thoroughly and effectually that there is never a return of the disease to embarrass or humiliate you afterwards.

Like Begets Like. The Sin of the Parent.

SSS cures Contagious Blood Poison in any and all stages; contains no mineral to break down your constitution; it is purely vegetable and the only blood purifier known that cleanses the blood and at the same time builds up the general health.

Our little book on contagious blood poison is the most complete and instructive ever issued; it not only tells all about this disease, but also how to cure yourself at home. It is free and should be in the hands of everyone seeking a cure. Send for it.

MONDAY, JANUARY 7

FURCHES THE MAN.

On Saturday night Governor Russell appointed Associate Justice D. M. Furches to the Chief Justiceship made vacant by the death of Judge Faircloth. From the Governors point of view, provided he took a reasonable one, and the result shows that he did, this was the very best thing that he could have done. Of course it was not expected that he should appoint any but a Republican. Justice Furches was in line of appointment, and ability being equal, it would not have been seemly to have gone outside and elevated an untried man.

It is quite certain that Governor Russell himself had a great desire to succed to this place. The fact that he hesitated and iistened carefully to the reception of the suggestion by the public, shows that he seriously considered it. It would have been very natural had he been deceived by the urgency of too partial friends and given up to the whisperings of ambition. But by refusing to fall into a weakness for which it might have been possible under some circumstances to excuse a man, he has proven himself stronger than he could possibly have done in the exercise of the duties of the place which his ambition coveted. We are glad for his own sake that he did not fall.

Who will be appointed to fill the place made vacant by Judge Furches' advancement does not yet appear. The appointment of some of the men suggested would be a fatal error on the part of the Governor.

Loyal and well meaning Democrats brought the disfranchisement horse into camp, and the enemies of Democracy are now crying "What a noble animal it is." And to what purpose? They are convinced that the disfranchisement of the negro is the beginning of the end of Democratic supremacy in the State.—Virginian-Pilot.

If these words mean anything they mean that the Democratic party in Virginia rests wholly upon the negro vote. This must be true in one of two ways. Either by the negro voting directly for the Democratic party and thus giving it his positive influence, or by furnishing a cause for holding white voters to the party by voting with an opposite party and thus arousing prejudice for the benefit of the Democratic party. If it is true, as the Virginian-Pilot says it is, that Democratic supremacy in Virginia rests upon one or the other of these conditions, it is time for that supremacy to skedaddle.

DEATH OF PHILLIP D. ARMOUR

had been so closely identified. It is believed that all the Armour properties will be held intact until the grandchildren come into their own.

Estimates of Mr. Armour's owa estate run from $10,000,000 to $25,000,000. This of course does not include the $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 owned by the younger members of his family. For years every enterprise he was interested in has been making immense profits. His holdings of stock have all advanced during the last three years.

Philip D. Armour, who was in his 69th year, made his own life on lines unique and wholly original with himself. From a not over-rich Oneida county, N. Y., farmer, to the position of paying more freight and controlling more provisions than any other man in the world, were the two extremes of his life. The ancestral Armours were Connecticut people, but Philip Armour was not born until after the family had moved to Stockbridge, Oneida county, N. Y. His birth date was May 16, 1832.

The California Gold fever struck western New York in 1849, and young Armour was the first in Stockbridge to determine to visit the Pacific coast. He obtained the permission of his parents and at the age of 17 started off, having three or four companions from the same neighborhood. The almost incredible part of it was that the party walked nearly the entire distance from New York to California.

The commercial sense, which has always predominated in his life, indicated its presence as soon as he saw the gold fields of California. He made money from the start, and at the end of six years returned home with a fortune. Becoming dissatisfied with the quiet life of his native town, he came West again with a brother-in-law and established a large wholesale grocery house in Milwaukee. This venture was also successful and in a year's time he purchased the largest grain elevator in Milwaukee. This led to more elevators and railroad stock. In 1866 he came to Chicago to take charge of the Chicago branch of a New York packing establishment. The result was that the Chicago house ceased to be a branch and the West gained the largest packing and provision plant in the world. The property interests for which Mr. Armour stood are estimated at $150,0000,000. His personal share of this property is variously estimated at from $25,000,000 to $50,000,000.

In works of charity Mr. Armour's monument will be found in the Armour Itstitute, to which but a short time ago he gave $750,000 in one remittance. Asked as to what he considered his best paying investment, he replied: "The Armour Institute." The institute today represents an investment on the part of Mr. Armour and his brother Joseph of $2,750,000 and a yearly expense of $100,000.

While Mr. Armour's name was more generally associated in the public mind with the great packing and provision establishments, in which he was interested and which do an annual business exceeding $100,000,000, employing 20,000 persons, and having representatives in every city of importance in the world, he was actively interested in many other big enterprises.

As the owner of an important system of grain elevators, and as a heavy investor in the grain products of the Middle and Western States, Mr. Armour was an important factor in the grain markets of the world. Mr. Armour was a heavy owner in the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad, and the reorganized Baltimore & Ohio. He was interested largely in the Illinois Trust and Savings, Metropolitan National and Northern Trust Banks, of Chicago, and in the Armour Bank, of Kansas City. He was a director of the Northwestern Life Insurance Company, and was a heavy stockholder in the company which controls the street railways of Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kansas.

Mr. Armour married Miss Malvina Belle Ogden, daughter of Jonathan Ogden, of Cincinnati, in October, 1862. They had two children, Philip D. Armour, Jr, who died a year ago, and J. Ogden Armour, who seems destined, by character, training and circumstances, to succeed his father as the head of the Armour house. Of the five brothers who have been identified with the upbuilding of the Armour enterprises, Herman O. Armour, who went to New York in 1871 to look after the New York interests of the copartnership, is the only survivor.

A North Carolina Incident Called to Mind

Charlotte Observer.

The statement that young society women of Cleveland, O., are furious over the knowledge that among the "gents" with whom they danced at the Hanna coming-out party on New Year's night were a number of detectives, reminds one of a similar display of indignation in North Carolina some years ago. At a big Republican gathering an opossum feast was one of the features, and was especially enjoyed by a leading member of the g. o. p., who had consumed an unusual amount of game until he found that by the use of money with the chief he had dined on a more domestic animal than the colored man's favorite. Mr. George Ade would probably point out the moral in these cases as being that ignorance is sometimes a great deal better than knowledge.

When threatened by pneumonia or any other lung trouble, prompt relief is necessary, as it is dangerous to delay. We would suggest that One Minute Cough Cure be taken as soon as indications of having taken cold are noticed. It cures quickly and its early use prevents consumption. Howard Gardner.

"This section assuredly possesses a promising future. Where only a few months ago the tall flowers bloomed and the prairie grass waved, will soon be seen fields of rustling corn, golden billows of wheat, and cotton resplendent in the breezes of this genial climate. Where now are only rolling prairies will be seen beautiful homesteads and happy homes; the blended sounds of manifold industries will go up from pleasant villages and stately cities."

OUR FRIENDS ARE DECEIVED.

It is Easy to Get Appropriations Through the Senate, But the House Blocks Them.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

In the report of Saturday's session of Congress we find the following:

"A few unobjectionable measures were taken from the Calendar and passed by the Senate, among them a bill to appropriate $5,000 to enclose and beautify the monument on the Moore's Creek battlefield, North Carolina."

This we are glad to see, for Moore's Creek Bridge is the site of the first victory of the Revolutionary War and as complete a victory, perhaps, as occurred during that war. Taught by the Guilford Battle Ground experience with Congress, however, we reserve our felicitations of North Carolina until the bill shall have passed the House of Representatives. We have had appropriations time and again to get through the Senate, but the House holds them up.

GLORIOUS NEWS

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help: but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved,—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist. Guaranteed.

Their entire stock must be closed as soon as possible, and not later than April the 1. Now if you need anything in ladies' dress goods, dry goods of all description, shoes, carpets or anything of this kind now is the time to save money. They are not closing out with the view of putting in new stock, but they are actually going out of the dry goods business. Be on hand Monday and get some of the choice picks.

Named a Toothless Animal.

During a lesson on the animal kingdom the teacher put the following question: "Can any boy name me an animal of the order indentata—that is a toothless animal?" A boy whose face beamed with pleasure at the prospect of a good mark, replied: "I can." "Well, what is the animal?" "My grandmother," replied the boy, in great glee.—Chicago Chronicle.

Floating with a Wolf

Grim Experience of a Westerner on the Missouri River.

"WELL, sir, this thing of sailing on an ice raft does not conform to the requirements of the Sunday-school picnic. Dismal as the latter may be and generally is, it is oriental luxuriance compared to the former, especially if the highway being traversed happens to be the Missouri river when it feels 'pert.'" The speaker was a western man.

"It was in the early '80's. You remember the winter I had that thing on in Kansas City?" he resumed. "Whew, what a winter that was! Thermometer down below zero for six weeks, wind howling a blizzard all day and resting up at night for the next day, snow three feet deep and frozen solid so that wagon wheels played harmonics all the time, a man's breath adding to the accumulations of snow and ice and—"

"Oh, come, Charlie," broke in the sufferer, "draw it mild, like Sairey Gamp liked it."

"Well, you know it was a fearful winter as well as I. What's the matter? You visited me and nearly froze to death. Couldn't keep warm, although I burned up a ton of coal a week. Well, you know, I'm something of a hunter. I had plenty of idle time and used to wrap up well and take my Parker out across into Kansas, where chicken and duck were plenty. I had some fine sport sniping, too, along the big river and the slough. There are too many hills thereabouts for good sloughing, though.

"It was along in March. You know the idea that the weather out there is better than here won't hold water, for the water would freeze in winter. The season outlasts ours sometimes, too. It did this particular winter, for they had snow in the middle of April. Fact. I got out my gun one day when it was a bit mild and went over the road to a few miles up river from Quindaro. You know this once famous town is now the reservoir for the waterworks. Well, I sniped along the bank in the reeds and was knocking over quite a few, when I saw I had better start back down river if I wanted to get home before dark. I had had good sport, but ached for more. It was a grand day—cold, to be sure, but bracing.

"At last I spied some duck sitting on the water—the river rarely freezes all the way over—just beyond the rim of ice which fringed the shore. At this point the river sweeps wide to the north and then cuts into the hills on the south side, forming a narrow gorge near the waterworks. There is a bend which the current strikes and it had piled up a lot of ice in hummocks as it ground against the shore ledge. These hummocks helped me a heap, for I could sneak out on the shore ice and get a chance at the duck. I forgot all about the time, for I was shy a good fat redhead and wanted him.

"Well, sir, I went out on that shore ledge—it was shoal water there—and heaved chunks of ice at those ducks to get 'em up, you know, for no hunter shoots at water fowl when swimming. They balked like Sam Hill and I crept out farther and farther, still heaving things at 'em. At last they rose and I was busy shooting right and left as fast as I could load. Then when we got out of range I found I had nary a duck, was out of cartridges and no dog to bring in the dead. I killed a lot, but they fell in the water or, what was worse, on the bank.

"Yes, sir, that's a fact. I turned back to go to the shore and discovered that I was on an ice raft well out in the current. It was whirling around in the eddying stream like a top, and by the time I had seen the waterworks half a dozen times and lost 'em as often I declare I didn't know if I was at Quindaro or in the Alps. Say, maybe you think I liked it. I didn't. That river is a hard proposition anywhere. It is harder in what they call a throat gorge—one of these narrowings of the banks—than anywhere else. I was in one of these gorges and working downstream as fast as the field ice would let me.

"As I said, the crushing of the floe against that angle in the bank had piled up a lot of bergs higher than my head. What made me swear at myself for a fool was that I had forgotten to calculate the rottenness of ice at that season. I went out on the edge, and, as the dumned stream was rising anyway, I had slipped the moorings of my raft. So while I was busy shooting the confounded thing was traveling due north, which there meant out into the current. There I was out in the middle of the busiest river on the globe with nothing but some rotten ice between me and an undertow warranted to pull under a warship. Oh, it was lovely. But I was up against it, so there was no use cussing.

"Just at this point the river makes a 'crossing.' That is, the current hits one bank a good wallop and then butts across to the other side in spite of the main body of water. This imparts to the whole business a measley upstream idea at certain spots. We got into this whirlpool—I forgot to mention Mr. Wolf, who was on that block with me—and then we backed away from side to side, as if we were dancing a quadrille. I saw the waterworks a few times, then I didn't. Then it began to get dark. Then Mr. Wolf commenced to sing his swan song and I wanted to go home right off.

"You see, they have gray wolves out there. Now, it happened that a member of this tribe—usually afraid of a man—had marched out on the ice to take a quiet drink. He was busy lapping up the blue water. Oh, yes, it's blue in winter if it does look like pea soup in summer—when I split out our raft. I say ours, for the wolf held his end of the game to the showdown when it was a draw. Then he could have had the premises without a fight from me.

"We backed and filled there until the moon came up. I had been too busy to think of the possibility of any animal being there, when the wolf, sitting where it was thick enough to stand his yowl, lifted his beak to the heavens and cut loose with a groan which reminded me of the whistle of a tug in idstress. I was shocked and turned about to see what this all meant. There was Mr. Wolf sitting on his haunches and singing a dolorous measure. Then I remembered that the farmers in that region loved not the wolf, so I wished him to cease from murmuring. They might turn loose a few Gatlings on us and the wolf would have none the best of it. I heaved a few loose blocks of ice at him and he quit howling and growled, crouching as if to spring.

"Here's a funny thing. That chunk of ice was some 50 feet wide and as many broad when we started navigation. Then as we butted into a piece of shoal water or another berg a big chunk would come away and the raft commenced to grow beautifully less. This made it interesting. You know the American wolf is a coward when he has a few thousands of miles to race over, but in close quarters he will fight. I knew it, at any rate, for when I tossed chunks at him he quit warbling, showed his teeth and crouched for a spring.

"I saw by the time we had been out there half a dozen hours that the raft was too small for both of us. I wanted all the room myself and decided the wolf would have to go. I am not much of a swimmer myself and it was cold, so I tried to shoo off that wolf. He wouldn't shoo worth a cent. We were out in the middle of the river by this and making good progress toward Kansas City. Chunk after chunk was whirling from our raft and it soon became a matter of crouching on opposite sides of a hummock in the middle. The wolf crouched in closer and closer and whined like a dog. But he showed fight when I bothered him.

"The moon came up and silvered our raft. It also showed where the dark, sullen and furious water raged. It was a thoughtful time. I had missed dinner by a dozen miles, was out on the bosom of the Missouri with one lone wolf of uncertain parentage and undiscovered habits. I had no cartridges with which to shoot him and he resented any familiarity. I remember that, having used threats, I resorted to the 'con' game, but that wolf was a wise boy; he paid no heed to my efforts to make friends. He howled when not molested, as he evidently had no purpose of swimming for it. Neither had I, but as our limits narrowed with every swirl of a tide that does nothing else it soon became a question of who would win at this kind of postponed game.

"Away to the south, high in the heavens, I could see a line of lights declining visibly. I took them for stars, but later concluded they were the lights on Bluff street. Would we sweep by the big city or would we hit a sandbar, plenty of which lurked near by? It was a question. I made up my mind I must get rid of that wolf, so I sneaked around the kopje and hoisted my shotgun to smite him. Then commenced the most lurid scrap I ever mixed with.

"I swung with the gun; he ducked and clawed me in the ribs. I rushed, he side-stepped and swung for my jaw, but I went under. Then we sparred around that ice hill. He kept it between me and harm until all at once with a yowl he charged. He smote me in the side and one leg went into 80 feet of water, but I was up before he could count ten. Then I closed in—I had to, for I broke off another chunk with that rush—and handed him an awful punch. I thought he was out, but he came up before the count and ducked as I went for him.

"One must go out this time or it was a draw, for but eight feet of space was left. I didn't measure it excepting with my eyes, but I'll swear to it. I led the left—I'd lost the gun—and he blocked, countering with his right. I went under and caught him an awful uppercut under the chin with my right. He liked it; absolutely liked it, for it never bothered him. He crouched low and led right and left swift as lightning. I gave ground and backed clear off the ice as it hit that sandbar.

"I struck out to swim for shore, although I didn't know where that was. I paddled vigorously for awhile with my feet high in the air—'sternwheeling,' we used to call it as boys—when my fingers dug into sand. Say, I never felt anything which equaled that. I hauled myself in gingerly and found that for five minutes I had been swimming in six inches of water. Then as I headed for dryer land that wolf took a header over me as he started for tall grass. I swung and fell over from the force of my punch."—Chicago Chronicle.

THE DISEASE OF LOVE.

He had to slave all day,
When skies were dark or blue;
Though well he toiled away
His work was never through.

The raiment that he wore
Was patched and old and frayed;
The burdens that he bore
He carried undismayed.

And when the darkness fell
He put his work aside,
And hurried home pell-mell,
Glad-faced and eager-eyed.

He loved and bravely bore
The load he had to bear;
Contentment found his door
And boldly entered there.

Yet doctors wisely say
Love's only a disease—
Good Lord, make love, I pray,
Contagious, if you please!

For Our Lady Readers

8190—Boys' Russian Suit. 4, 6, and 8 years.

BOY'S RUSSIAN SUIT, NO. 8190.

This natty suit is made of tobacco brown cheviot, with belt and tie of velvet in a darker shade.

The coat is simply adjusted with shoulder and under-arm seams. The closing is effected invisibly at the right side, the neck being completed by a rolling collar, which forms broad revers in front. The velvet belt is drawn down in front and holds the garment close to the figure around the waist.

The regulation coat sleeves have slight fullness on the shoulders and are finished with machine stitching in cuff effect.

The trousers are shaped with inside and outside leg seams and attached to the lower edge of the lining body, which is faced with cloth to simulate a shield. The body closes in the center back, the neck being completed with a standing collar.

Serge, covert, flannel or diagonal are appropriate fabrics for this mode. A very dressy effect may be secured by having adjustable revers and plastron of white pique for little boys. Corduroy and velveteen are also used for more elaborate suits, some being trimmed with narrow gold braid.

To make the suit for a boy six years will require one and one-half yards of fifty-four-inch material, with one-half yard of lining. The pattern, No. 8190, is cut in sizes for boys two, four, six and eight years.

Silk newness means the retaining of all the soft, satiny features and the addition of untold wonders of weave.

As for colors, both the pastel combinations and more decided shades are the thing, and these, of course, in addition to the ever-favored black and white, both solid and combined. A rich sort of a tan color forms a fine ground, too, for tiny black and white figures, and it will no doubt be gobbled up quickly by those who like a quiet, serviceable and yet attractive color.

Those who fancy summer silk talk premature may be reminded that some patterns are already sold out.

THE NEWEST.

Printed warp Louisines are newest, and they come in candy colors which are a bit more pronounced than the long-favored pastel tints.

These lovely silks, which cost $1.50 and $2.50 the yard, come both in striped and plaid effects.

One-quarter-inch white stripes alternate with inch-wide stripes of the loveliest mixture of rosy, blueish, violet, creamy shadings.

Then there's a plaid, the plaids being indicated by bars of creamy-white satin in various widths; these keep all the other colors, such as pearl, gray and all the pretty Pompadour tints, in order.

PLAID PANNE.

Very beautiful are the new plaid pannes, costing $3 the yard.

A buff, two blues, cream and white is an effective combination.

So is that showing white, cream and soft gray, awakened, as it were, by coral. These are particularly desirable for blouses and trimmings.

CREPE KINKS.

So far the novelty in crepes is in the shape of a stripe. These soft graceful lengths cost $2.50 per yard, and come in black and in white.

One, from which "one might have a dozen dresses by buying underslips of as many colors," shows alternating stripes of the crepe and a very open square-mesh one of lace.

Another has two weights of crepe in its alternating two-inch stripes, and the thicker one boasts embroidery along its edges. This is very rich.

AYAS.

These always admirable summer silks are made in China and printed in England, which means that both the silk and the printing is superfine. Aya is the Oriental name for twill.

Women of acknowledged taste are buying figures of medium size, as well as the very small ones, which are close set.

Reseda and gray are modish colorings when figured with white. One clever figure consists of white polka dots, three-eighths of an inch in diameter, which are set so close together as to fairly touch. This close setting relieves it of any loud look, and, indeed, one could hardly tell whether it was gray dotted with white or white with undulating gray lines.

A deep-bright blue suggests a blue brick wall with white mortar joints, the "bricks" being a half inch in length, and set up and down, instead of crosswise.

SOFT AND SATINY.

Just describes the new foulards and the Liberty silks.

White or white and black are the usual printings on black, blue, violet, coral, reseda, tan and all the variations of these colors. The prettiest perhaps show showers of small white dots, with an occasional white-centred black figure.

FLOWER OF MOTHER OF PEARL.

Moire magnificence appeals to the older women, and the mother of many an Easter or June bride can't do better than invest quickly before these shimmery-looking lengths of antique elegance have been seized upon by somebody else.

There's one piece at $5, and, though in white, it reflects every color in its vicinity.

But alone, all by itself, a dream of all the satiny fabrices and the insinuating reflections of the delicately-marked baby lamb worked out in silk, stands the exclusive novelty, fleur de nacre—flower or mother of pearl! It is a chameleon moire, brought all the way from Lyons to tempt Philadelphiennes, and its odd, broadtail-like markings were produced by pressing it between cylinders. The mother-of-pearl part of it is gotten at by having the threads of the woof of pale pink and pale blue alternating. The warp is of finest white silk. It suggests both panne and heaviest moire antique.

And fancy that this exclusive textile poem is only $3.50 the yard!

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable things in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, heart-burn, waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac.

Henpeck—I wish I hadn't bought that new dictionary now.

Askem—Why? Does your wife object?

Henpeck—No, indeed. She doesn't object, but she spends all her time hunting up new words to scold me with.—Baltimore American.

LOCAL ITEMS.

In the statement of the K. of P. Endowment Rank, which appeared Saturday, an error in the figures occurred. We reprint the statement today in full, giving it in correct form.

The County Commissioners were in session today, transacting routine business and talking roads.

The Endowment K. of P. is still booming. G. H. Royster, general agent for North Carolina Georgia and Alabama, says he he expects to do the largest business this year he has ever done. He will go out on the road in a few days.

The funeral of Mr. S. W. Thornlow, an account of whose death appeared in Saturday's Telegram, occurred this afternoon at three o'clock from his late residence on South Elm street. It was attended by Guilford Lodge No. 69, K. of P. Mrs. Thornlow's brother, Mr. L. S. Davis, of Petoskey, Michigan, arrived on the noon train today.

Sergeant P. E. Stroud, of the Greensboro recruiting office, will in a few days open a temporary recruiting station in Winston. During his absence the office here will be in charge of Mr. Peter Watkins.

Big Eyes at The Orphanage.

Mr. Archibald Johnson, the well known editor of Charity & Children, of the Thomasville Orphanage, spent the day in the city attending a meeting of the directors of the Greensboro Furniture Company. Mr. Johnson says that the Christmas tree at the orphanage was one of the finest sights ever witnessed. A family Christmas tree is something, but when old Santa Claus comes in to unload presents to several hundred kids at one time, the saucer-like eyes of that crowd are something to behold.

For Playing Cards on Sunday.

Four jugglers of the pasteboard were taken in by the officers of the law yesterday in violation of the ordinance against Sunday card playing. Henry Martin, of color, yesterday made complaint to Chief Scott that Cicero Mitchell and John Youst, two of the coons captured, had robbed him of $1.50, and one of them had drawn a pistol on him and the other had hit him in the mouth with a pair of knucks, presumably to the great injury of the latter. The police took beside these two, Nathan Donald and Al Graves.

Going to Make an Example of Deserters.

The frequent desertions from the army stationed at different places in the United States will no doubt make it necessary for the government to inflict some harsh punishment by way of example. Several deserters have recently been caught in this section, and so far as we know, the punishment has been very mild.

Yesterday Sergeant O'Donnell and another officer came to Greensboro, en route to Mt. Airy, looking for men from that section who had deserted from Savannah. The officers were dressed in citizen's clothing. They had learned of Chief of Police Scott's ability as a man catcher, and wanted him to go with them. He, however, didn't think that quite a part of his duties, although there was a possible reward of $50. When they got to Mt. Airy they got the chief of police at that place to go with them, but the crowd returned empty handed. The army officers went back today as they came.
